Impulses to build institutional repository:

- modern trends in the document accessing
- university promotion
- challenge to enhance the importance of the university library within the university
- amendment 624/2006 of the Higher Education Act 11/1998 => „universities are obliged to make accessible their theses and dissertations to public“
- huge growth of students' theses and dissertations

Implementation

- project launched in 2007
- main requirements for the system were interoperability, facile installation, large uses and cost-effectiveness
- open source system DSpace has been chosen
- structure which copies the university environment
- Czech localization of DSpace version 1.4.2
- templates for metadata entry (Czech metadata standard EVSKP-MS)
- one-shot import of bibliographic records from the library automated system

What can be found here?

- over 13 000 records of theses and dissertations (since 1992)
- over 2000 theses and dissertations in full text
- over 400 articles from Scientific Papers of the University of Pardubice (since 1995)

University Bibliographic Database (OBD)

University research outputs (only metadata import, full text will be available in accordance with publisher's copyright), testing from the summer 2009
